Dinner and a movie

On the agenda: ShowPlace Icon Theatre, 150 W. Roosevelt Road, 312-564-2104; showplaceicon.

Check it out if you ... don't want to brave the cold between the dinner and movie portions of your date, hate having to get to the theater super early to claim a good seat, think a lot of films can be improved by watching them with a cocktail in hand.

The deets: You can catch a film and dine on a thin-crust pizza with a beer or a glass of wine without leaving ShowPlace Icon Theatre. The first floor features a movie theater where patrons reserve their seat of choice in advance; children aren't allowed in most showings after 7 p.m. The concession stand offers upscale treats including Ghirardelli chocolate and frozen yogurt with fruit toppings. For more substantive fare, you can head up to Lobby Lounge, a chill bar from Jerry Kleiner—the restaurant mogul behind Marche, Carnivale and Park 52. For the best of both worlds, buy a VIP ticket for $12.50-$17.50 and watch the movie from a seat featuring a table to hold your dinner and drinks. Regular tickets are $7.50-$12.50.

The payoff: A full night out under one roof.

Nick & Mariah's INFINITE PLAYLIST

Power couple pumps up the volume in Chi-town

By Matt Pais | METROMIX

Nick Cannon is a busy man. To say the least.

The actor-producer-record exec-TV star-you-name-it not only hosts "America's Got Talent" and a morning radio show in New York, he's chairman of the Teen Nick network; CEO of his production company, Ncredible, and his own record label, Can I Ball Records; produces about eight TV shows and owns high school magazine Celebrity High.

Oh yeah, and he's married to Mariah Carey.

Cannon, who lives in New York and L.A., estimates that he sleeps two hours a night. Three on a good night.

At 10 p.m. Saturday, Cannon will DJ—as DJ Sexyfingerz—for the third time at Underground ($20 cover; RSVP to rsvp@rockitranch.com). During a phone interview while on his way from the Def Jam offices to the MTV building in Times Square, Cannon, 29, talked about his DJ skills and his Valentine's Weekend plans with his wife, who performs Saturday and Sunday at Chicago Theatre.

Mariah Carey and Nick Cannon
GETTY IMAGES FILE

I'll name a list of elements in a possible Valentine's Day celebration. You tell me what you will or won't be including: fireplace, bearskin rug, chocolate sauce, edible underwear, a donkey.
Wow. None of those except maybe the chocolate sauce. [Laughs.]

That's the only one? No chance of the others?
No donkeys! Unless we're putting luggage on his back to walk to the cars with. But the donkey cannot be in the room.

What do you really have planned for Valentine's Day this weekend? I read you were shopping for sweets.
Just really hangin' out. Obviously we gonna be in the Chi. Just spending time with each other, spending that whole day just havin' fun. We kind of cherish that time when we don't have to do anything and don't have to work, so that's probably what it'll be about.

What are some spots in Chicago you're hoping to check out?
I mean, probably mostly the hotel room. The Pier's always a great place to go, so if it's not too cold we might venture down there.

Last Valentine's Day you guys started a fire in your hotel room.
Yeah, she saved my life.

How did she put it out?
There was a bunch of vases with water in it and roses and she just thought extremely fast, ripped all the roses out of the vases and just started throwing the water on the fire.

That must've been surreal.
Yeah, I was just screamin' like a little bitch while she was being the hero.

What can people expect from your DJ set at Underground on Saturday?
I like to bring the fun, you know what I mean? The hottest new records. I like to throw some stuff in there that'll make people smile or giggle and stuff like that. It'll be some throwback stuff, just keeping the BPM's goin', keeping people dancing.

Be honest: How many Mariah Carey songs do you put into a set?
At least three. [Laughs] If she shows up it'll probably be more. But she's got some bangers. "Obsessed" is a smash, the new "Up Out My Face" is a smash, and then the classic "Fantasy." So I always gotta play that. I think every DJ plays those.

Do you expect that she'll swing by after the show?
You never know. It always depends how she's feeling after the show. The most important thing is her voice, so we're never going to jeopardize that. But sometimes if she knows I'm going to DJ she come in there and keep an eye on me.

I hear you and your wife are trying to conceive, which is awesome. Do you have any suggestions for setting the mood?
[Laughs] Uh, not really. That's funny that people just make stuff up like say we're trying to conceive. That was news to me. I also heard I was adopting a Haitian kid too. Stuff like that is funny. We just leaving that type of stuff up to God and when the time is right.

Some articles are, like, you guys are hiding in a bunker just getting down to it.
[Laughs] Yeah, that's definitely buggin' me out. People just make up stuff like that.

What advice do you have for guys who are dating older women?
Uh, don't think about it. I've kind of always been a dude that was just attracted to people more mature than I was. You gotta be a person who understands a female if you goin' to venture to someone who's probably a little more mature than you. Guys already got so much goin' up against us with women being smarter than us. So you gotta be ready for it.

So when you say "don't think about it," you mean most people shouldn't do it?
No, [I mean] if you put too much thought into it, you're going to screw it up.

ALL ABOUT MIMI

Mariah Carey's life has been nothing short of tumultuous since January 2009, when the diva uglied herself up for a role in "Precious." Never shy of publicity, Mimi has crammed the 14 months since the movie's American debut with embarrassing gaffes and impressive achievements alike. GENEVIEVE DIESING FOR REDEYE

January 2009
Carey sheds her makeup, sports some fem-facial hair and earns critical acclaim for her role as a social worker in "Precious," a gritty movie that premieres to much fanfare at the Sundance Film Festival.

May 2009
Eminem suggests he once dated Carey in the song "Bagpipes," directing a rap at her husband, Nick Cannon: "I want her back, you punk."

MAD MEN

The word "caution" never has appeared to mean much to Mariah Carey in the romance department. Nor has "frugal," for that matter. The reported $5 million price tag on Carey's wedding to record executive Tommy Mottola—and a divorce five years later—was just the beginning. Let's take a look through the star-crossed history of Mimi's little black book—after all, it is Valentine's Day weekend! GENEVIEVE DIESING FOR REDEYE

Tommy Mottola
1993-97

Carey's high-profile marriage to the man who produced her debut album ended after five years. Why? "There was a time when all I was allowed to do was go to gay clubs, because my quote-unquote husband was so afraid of me being around straight people," Carey told Houston-based gay magazine OutSmart, according to yahoo.com.
Where is he now? Mottola is co-owner of Casablanca Records and is married to Mexican singer Thalia.

Derek Jeter
1997-98

The New York Yankees' man candy shortstop dating one of pop music's hottest divas? Now that's a Big Apple media frenzy made in heaven! Reporters might have gotten a little too Carey-Jeter happy for the couple's comfort, though. Both stars' reps blamed the media's nosiness for their split after only one year, according to espn.com.
Where is he now? The famed bachelor is engaged to marry "(500) Days of Summer" star Minka Kelly on Nov. 5, the New York Post reported last month.

Luis Miguel
1998-2001

Remember when Carey began peeling off her clothes and handing out Popsicles to MTV's "Total Request Live" audience? People magazine said the public meltdown was a result of her breakup with the Grammy-winning singer. Soon after that TV appearance, Carey checked into a hospital with "extreme exhaustion."
Where is he now? The singer has two children with longtime girlfriend and actress Aracely Arambula.

Eminem
2006?

Did they or didn't they? Eminem says they dated; Carey says "no way." Perhaps the best take of the romantic feud came from Carey's husband, Nick Cannon, who weighed in on his blog last year. "[Eminem is] still obsessed with my wife, the same female that wouldn't let him get to second base from 8 years ago," he wrote, according to people.com.
Where is he now? Em, who married and divorced his high school sweetheart twice, is not reported to be dating anyone.

Nick Cannon 2008-present

Mimi robbed the cradle! And it seems to be working for them. Carey, whose age is roughly 41 depending on your source, and Cannon, 29, have been married almost two years. "She is beautiful on the outside and 10 times as beautiful on the inside," the musician and actor told People in 2008. Awww!
Where is he now? Thinking about their future children. "We absolutely plan to have a family," Cannon told mtv.com last month. "But we gotta prioritize, because that's a major, major priority."

September 2009
Carey releases her 12th album, "Memoirs of an Imperfect Angel," which peaks at No. 3 on the Billboard 200 albums chart.

September 2009
More than a pretty singer, Carey releases her fourth signature scent, "Forever." "When I put on this fragrance, I am transformed into feeling glamorous and sophisticated," her Web site boasts.

January 2010
Carey delivers a meandering speech that she later blamed on "splashes of champagne" after earning the breakthrough actress award for her role in "Precious" at the Palm Springs International Film Festival.

January 2010
What's this?! Less than two weeks after her bizarre acceptance speech, Carey tweets an announcement of the launch of her own line of bubbly, Angel Champagne. Hmmm.

Cupcake truffle

'Hood: Lakeview

Need a last-minute V-Day sweet? Not sold on the tired heart-shaped chocolates box? Try this new creation, a collaboration between Southport Grocery & Cafe (3552 N. Southport Ave. 773-665-0100) and truffle truffle, a new local business distributing its sweets in bake shops and eateries. It's a cupcake. It's a truffle. It's both! And if you buy 12 ($24, $1.50 each), they come in a cute little tin perfect for gift giving. Pick them up at Southport Grocery pronto!
When: 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday; 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Sunday

SCREW IT

Cupid

'Hood: Lincoln Park

For everyone who's head-over-heels in love with V-Day romance, there's someone who's 100 percent over it. Want proof? Find it at the Screw Cupid Pub Crawl (start: McGee's Tavern & Grille, 950 W. Webster Ave. 773-868-8073), a six-bar crawl promoting all manner of broken hearts, bitter breakup stories and anti-Valentine prowess over drinks and food. Start anywhere you'd like to buy into the $25 crawl and get domestic drafts, a food buffet and "love punch" at each bar. Keep an eye out for trolleys circulating approximately every 15 minutes to bus your lonely heart between stops. Be sure to get there early, before wristbands sell out.
When: 8 p.m. Saturday
Cash: $25

IMPROVIZE IT

'Sex and the City'

'Hood: Bucktown/Wicker Park

Ladies, grab your independent, fashion-minded girlfriends and celebrate Valentine's Day the way Carrie, Miranda, Samantha and Charlotte would want you to—laughing and together (and likely with a flask hidden in your bag). Gorilla Tango Theatre (1919 N. Milwaukee Ave. 773-598-4549) hosts a special V-Day improv show propelled by HBO's "Sex and the City" and your plot suggestions. If you've ever wanted to throw a monkey wrench into the storyline and hook up Mr. Big with, say, Charlotte or switch Carrie's fashion addiction from shoes to, I dunno, rubber duckies, this is your chance.
When: 5 p.m. Sunday. Tickets: gorillatango.com
Cash: $10

'Torn pages' story-art combos

'Hood: Bucktown/Wicker Park

For more than a year, Chicago artist Josh Lucas has worked on a project melding art with words, pairing local authors and artists to collaborate on illustrated, original children's stories. This weekend, the project comes to life in the form of "The Following are Pages Torn from our Most Favorite Imaginary Books," a two-week exhibit opening Saturday at Ohno!doom Gallery (1800 N. Milwaukee Ave. 773-698-8348). Eleven pairings of stories and drawings are on display from writer-artist teams including "The Great Perhaps" author Joe Meno and artist Cody Hudson, and "boring boring boring boring boring boring boring" author Zach Dodson and Allison Burque. Stop by opening night to meet many of the contributors, and be sure to stay tuned: Lucas hopes to make the "torn pages" concept a yearly affair.

'Hoods: Gold Coast, Lakeview

Who says Valentine's Day gift giving is limited to others? Treat yourself to a V-Day splurge during Tax-free Shopping Weekend at the 900 North Michigan Shops (900 N. Michigan Ave. 312-915-3916), where your purchases are, you guessed it, tax free (or 10.25 percent off) all weekend. Grab a special pass, available at stores throughout the mall and at the concierge desk, to qualify your purchase. If Michigan Avenue shopping is too steep for your wallet with or without tax, spend V-Day at Bonanza! Vintage Blowout Sale at Berlin (954 W. Belmont Ave. 773-348-4975). Local vintage clothing stalwarts Knee Deep, Kokorokoko, Clothing Optional and the Sometimes Store sell men's and women's fashions on $5, $10 and $20 racks. Make a night of it with $4 mimosas and, after the sale, '80s night.

Sweet 'n' dough

By Tran Ha

How do you top perfectly chewy bagels from Lincolnwood's New York Bagel & Bialy? At Bagel on Damen, the answer is with schmears of 10 rotating cream cheese flavors, some inflected with shiitake mushroom and rosemary or white truffle and toasted pine nut.

The month-old Ukrainian Village spot is quickly establishing its neighborhood street cred with low-maintenance, budget-friendly offerings—weekend lines already snake out the door. Seating is limited to four two-person tables and a handful of bar stools, but customer traffic moves well around the bright and airy space.

The menu is much of what you would expect from a bagel joint. A baker's dozen worth of fresh, made-to-order bagel sandwiches ($4.95-$7.95), including lox, roast beef and veggies, are offered alongside three types of soup ($3.95), deviled eggs ($1.25 each), a variety of salads and a pantry shelf of small-batch pickles, jams and potato chips. Don't bother bringing your credit card; it's cash-only.

And we can't forget the Stumptown Coffee Roasters coffee ($2.25 for a 16-ounce cup, self-serve). In a city where seemingly every eatery prides itself on serving up Intelligentsia, Bagel on Damen is the first Chicago outpost for Portland, Ore.-based Stumptown and offers three kinds daily. The Kenya Gatomboya we tried was almost floral in its taste and smell.

Bagel on Damen owner Maggie McCoy
JASON LITTLE PHOTOS FOR METROMIX

Among BOD's small selection of breakfast offerings you'll find the Breakfast II sandwich ($4.95), egg, bacon, cream cheese and avocado on a toasted mish mosh bagel. It's tough to go wrong with that combo, but we preferred the simpler Brunch sandwich ($5.95), big chunks of egg salad atop tomato and greens on a toasted onion bagel. Fans of egg salad, this one's for you. Word of warning, though: It's messy.

Another must-try is the German ($5.95), thick slices of ham with just the right amount of crisp coleslaw and melted gouda on a pumpernickel bagel. This will be a natural partner to the homemade bloody mary mix when it finally arrives to complete your perfect takeout brunch. We're told it's still weeks away. That's reason enough to check back.

Scheming and dreaming

By Curt Wagner
REDEYE

In "Entourage," four young men from Queens went west to find, lose and find success in the superficial world of Hollywood—and gave HBO a long-running hit in the process.

Turns out they didn't have to go any farther than Manhattan to make it. HBO's new comedy, "How to Make It in America," follows the "Entourage" formula, but with an East Coast sensibility.

And it instantly sucked me in.

I didn't have the patience for the testosterone-drenched, immature antics of the "Entourage" man-kids. I was never convinced—no matter how loudly Jeremy Piven ranted as super-agent Ari Gold—that his client Vince would end up without a career if he didn't get that next big movie role.

"How to Make It" seems more relevant in these hard times—even if the get-rich-quick schemes of Brooklyn buddies Ben Epstein and Cam Telfair are far-fetched. The pair embrace the reality-show-induced belief that gaining fame and fortune doesn't take a whole lot of work. All you need is a break, a contact and some hustle and swagger.

They're barely carving out a living while failing to score at peddling skateboard decks, fake leather jackets and questionable art. When Cam (Victor Rasuk) lands them in hot water with his ex-con cousin, Rene (Luis Guzman), Ben (Bryan Greenberg) comes up with a new idea. Despite the fact that they have no fashion training and with Rene breathing down their backs for the money he's owed, the boys gamble that they can turn a bolt of Japanese denim into a jeans line called Crisp.

The threat of homelessness and physical harm seems more immediate for these guys.

Greenberg, Rasuk and Guzman are marvelous, as is Lake Bell as Ben's still-in-the-picture ex, Rachel. Even Shannyn Sossamon, Eddie Kaye Thomas and Kid Cudi are great in lesser roles. But the standout for me is Steppenwolf Theater Ensemble member Martha Plimpton, who plays Rachel's eccentric boss, Edie. We meet her in Episode 3 when she gives a speech about the importance of interior decorators that makes me wish she had a show all her own.

A Serious Man (R)

Joel and Ethan Coen's quietly amusing, philosophically rich and Oscar-nominated film about beset family man Larry Gopnick (Michael Stuhlbarg) is set in a Minnesota suburb in 1967. These days it doesn't take as much to send a man of faith reeling. Larry's journey to understand God's will leads him to three rabbis and one divorce lawyer. The ensemble is pitch perfect, especially Richard Kind as Larry's beleaguered brother and Fred Melamed as his wife's lover. Extras include three behind-the-scenes features.

Soldier of Love
Sade

At her worst, Sade makes first-rate cocktail party music, stylish aural wallpaper that conjures a certain mood. At her best, though, Sade can be breathtaking, wrapping pain in a steely resolve and a nonchalant exterior. "Soldier of Love" has a few more breathtaking moments to add to the collection, after the stunning title track, which finds the band at its most defiant. Sade, the band—Stuart Matthewman, Andrew Hale, Paul Denman and singer Helen Folasade Adu, aka Sade—does one thing exceedingly well and sticks to it.

Survivors
7 p.m. Saturday, BBC America

It's the end of the world as we know it—again—in this new British import. When a killer flu wipes out most of the human race, the survivors struggle to find, trust and help each other among the dead bodies, abandoned homes and desolate countryside. The small band of survivors we meet in the six-episode first season don't encounter the zombies we're used to in such films as "28 Days Later." The face off against an enemy that's even more scary: other desperate humans.

Josh Turner

Josh Turner's diving baritone brings out the playfulness and sexuality of this easygoing honky-tonker. Turner's fourth album is filled with neotraditional fare, the kind that has established him as one of country's best young stars. But you won't find any darkness here—no heartache or loss, despair or doubt. That has the cumulative effect of making the album seem on the slight side. It's good as far as it goes, but it doesn't plumb as deep as Turner's talents can obviously take him.

Think globally, drink locally

Green beer isn't just the stuff you drink on St. Patrick's Day. In fact, more and more breweries are moving toward eco-friendly beers, whether production involves conscious manufacturing practices, organic ingredients or a local focus.

Lucky for us, Chicago has no shortage of choices when it comes to a lighter brew footprint. Some of the more sustainable available brews in the beer aisle and on tap include:

» Goose Island (glproject.com): The brewery's Green Line Pale Ale, introduced Feb. 1, is designed to have less of an effect on the environment by being available only on draft in bars—and just in the city. That means no bottles, no packaging and a smaller transportation footprint.

» Brooklyn Brewery (brooklynbrewery.com): The company gets 100 percent of its energy from wind power, and the brewery's waste also is fed to local livestock. The brewery's New York digs also received a green face-lift—including new solar panels—after an $800,000 gift from the state.

» New Belgium Brewing Co. (newbelgium.com): The Colorado brewery uses wind-powered electricity, spent grain is used as feed for nearby cattle, and employees are encouraged to bike to work on company-provided bicycles.

And since drinking local is just as important as eating local—hello, growlers and kegs—here are a few more nearby breweries that sell their suds in the Chicago area.

» Two Brothers Brewing Co., Warrenville
» Bell's Brewery, Kalamazoo, Mich.
» Metropolitan Brewing, Chicago
» Half Acre Beer Company, Chicago
» Great Lakes Brewing Co., Cleveland
» Revolution Brewing, Chicago (pictured)

But whatever kind of beer you're drinking, there are a few other ways to make it an eco-friendly occasion.

» Opt for draft beers, which require less packaging.
» Recycle your bottles and cans—and ask your favorite bar if it does the same.
» Having a party? Get a keg or growlers instead of cases or bottles.

Even Cupid can't help but cringe

VALENTINE'S DAY (PG-13)

Lovesick fools experience a whirlwind of romantic possibility and confusion on Valentine's Day. Featuring Anne Hathaway as a phone sex operator, Patrick Dempsey as a two-timing doctor, Ashton Kutcher as a florist, Jessica Biel as a lonely publicist and a lot of other familiar faces as a lot of other irritatingly cutesy characters.

The buzz: "Valentine's Day" is the sort of fluff where everyone is preposterously interconnected and main characters have first names—Edison, Morley and Reed—that sound like the names adorning a law firm. Even Cupid has to hope "Valentine's Day" is somehow less sappy than "Feast of Love" and less shallow than "He's Just Not That Into You."

The verdict: Fingernails, meet chalkboard. Romantic comedies don't have to be intelligent, but they do require characters you want to see fall in love and that you believe when they do. With all the thought and sincerity of a Facebook poke, "Valentine's Day" endorses cheating and feels like intruding on the lovey-dovey stuff even couples know looks nauseating to anyone but them. Groan. Gag. Suppress. Repeat.

Did you know? Reed (Kutcher) claims his father told him, "If you're with a girl that's too good for you, marry her." Quick: Name five actors you think believe in that mantra. MATT PAIS IS THE METROMIX MOVIES PRODUCER.

Stout-of-this-world dark beers

MCT

Dark beers can be intimidating to casual beer drinkers. Maybe that's because their only stout experience has been with Guinness, an Irish dry stout with a creamy mouthfeel that's a staple at many bars and restaurants. Truth is, Guinness isn't bad, but there is so much more out there that could convert occasional stout drinkers to full-on aficionados.

Stouts are just as delicious with hearty, braised-meat dishes as they are with chocolate desserts, and they're big enough to be enjoyed on their own. Here are some standouts.

If you like cream in your coffee ... try Left Hand Milk Stout

There's no actual milk in milk stouts—that would be gross. This style gets its name from the lactose brewers add to offset a stout's strong roasted flavors. Left Hand's Milk Stout is a no-brainer with chocolate or dairy desserts, but it's also great on its own.

Others to try:
» Jefferson Stout from Mississippi
» Duck-Rabbit Milk Stout from North Carolina

If you like coffee and chocolate ... try Lagunitas Cappuccino Stout

The Cappuccino Stout has a wonderfully smooth mouthfeel and leaves a lip-smacking coffee aftertaste along with some dark-chocolate notes.

Others to try:
» Founders Breakfast Stout
» Schlafly Coffee Stout

If you like Guinness ... try Bell's Kalamazoo Stout

The roasted flavors in this 6 percent alcohol-by-volume stout are complemented by the addition of brewer's licorice, which provides an unusual dimension.

Others to try:
» Sierra Nevada Stout

If you like a shot of bourbon with your beer ... try Goose Island Bourbon County Stout

An imperial stout aged in bourbon barrels, this beer pours motor-oil thick and jet black, with smoky, oaky flavors that seem to last forever. Its 13 percent alcohol content means it could be savored now or stashed away in a cool, dark place for years; the flavors will meld and mellow with aging.

Others to try:
» Old Rasputin Russian Imperial Stout
» O'Fallon Russian Imperial Stout
» Schlafly Reserve Imperial Stout

First lady of racing

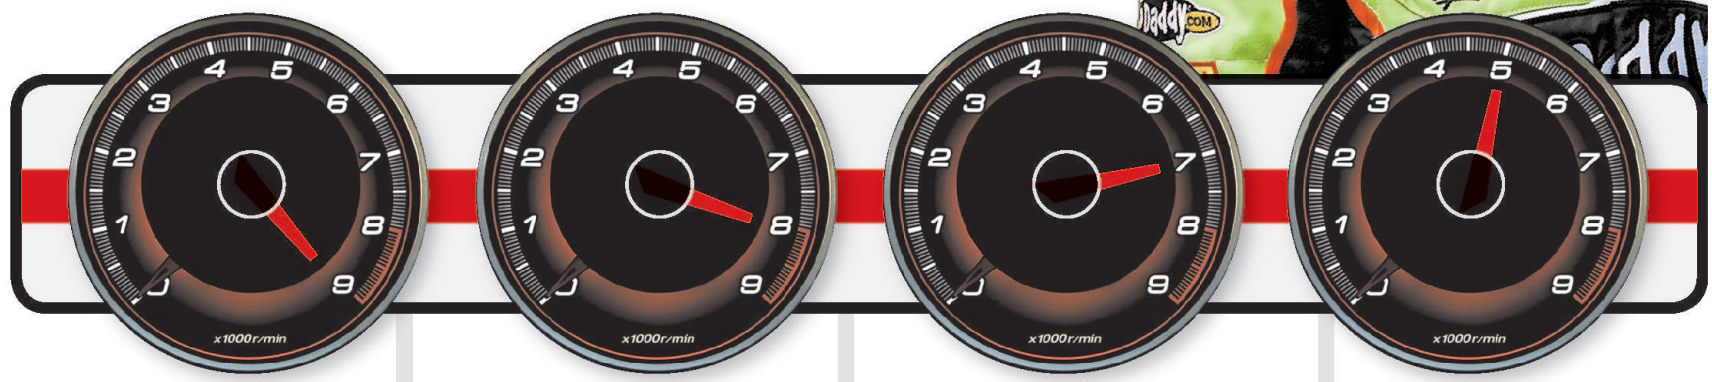

NASCAR's newest star breaks down barriers at high RPMs

By Ryan Smith FOR REDEYE

Danicamania is reaching full throttle. Patrick has been the center of racing—at least according to pop culture—for some time. But with the 27-year-old making her NASCAR Nationwide Series debut at Daytona International on Saturday, the hype machine is expected to go to full power. So how does the buzz surrounding the Chicago-area native's NASCAR premiere compare to her other debuts? Let's take a look. RYAN SMITH IS A REDEYE SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

Patrick
GETTY IMAGES

First Indianapolis 500
Patrick was off most people's radar until 2005, when she attempted to become the fourth woman to compete in IndyCar's signature race. Patrick opened more eyeballs with her killer looks and killer speed—she posted the fastest practice speed on the first day of qualifications.
Result: Patrick finished fourth, which stands as the best finish for a woman at the Indy 500.

First Super Bowl commercial
Patrick filmed a racy ad that was scheduled to appear during the 2008 Super Bowl, but the cameo of an animated beaver was a not-so-subtle double entendre. Fox told godaddy.com to leave the reference out. Instead, godaddy.com retooled the spot to advertise the uncut version of the commercial on the company's Web site.
Result: Two million hits on the site during Super Bowl Sunday.

First Sports Illustrated swimsuit edition
Patrick is no stranger to showing off her attributes for the camera, which probably is why her debut in the SI swimsuit edition in 2008 didn't get more attention. Patrick had posed scantily clad for FHM in 2003, and those sexy pictures made her swimsuit edition cameo look almost tame by comparison.
Result: Danica made a second swimsuit edition appearance in February 2009, posing in a bikini while draped on a Shelby Cobra replica.

First TV acting gig
Patrick made a guest appearance on crime drama "CSI: NY" this week as the top competitor of a racing star who dies under suspicious circumstances. The show was touted relentlessly by network promos, but the buzz has been low—possibly because audiences care more about her NASCAR skills than her acting chops.
Result: Not exactly Emmy material. Hopefully acting is just a pit stop for Patrick.

KAKURO EDITED BY MICHAEL MEPHAM

Enter a number between 1 and 9 in the empty squares. The clues are the numbers in the white circles that give the sum of the solution numbers: above the line are across clues; below the line are down clues. Thus, a clue of 3 will produce a solution of 2 and 1, and a 5 will produce 4 and 1, or 2 and 3, but, of course, which squares they go in will depend on the solution of a clue in the other direction. No digit can be repeated in a solution. Answer at redeyechicago.com/puzzles.

SCRABBLE

Make a 2- to 7-letter word from the letters in each row. Add points of each word, using scoring directions at right. Finally, 7-letter words get a 50-point bonus. "Blanks" used as any letter have no point value. All the words are in the Official Scrabble Players Dictionary, 3rd Edition. Find the answer at redeyechicago.com/puzzles.

V-Day fail

Even the most gorgeous have had their share of Valentine's Days they'd rather forget. So stop feeling all depressed if you're alone on this Hallmark holiday. At least you're in good company. ARIEL ALEXOVICH, REDEYE

Jamie Foxx

But then, of course, there's foxy Foxx, who told "Access Hollywood," "I've never experienced something bad to me, because, you know, I'm the dude. So whatever."

Joe Jonas

The middle JoBro told People magazine that at the tender age of 11, his 'tween girlfriend dumped him on Valentine's Day. Ouch.

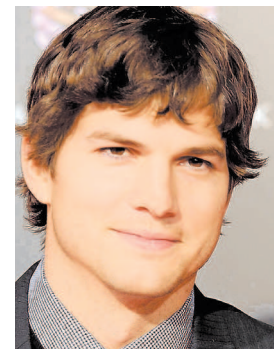

"I grew from it," he said. "You grow from everything. But it was really funny, and at the time I thought it was tragic."

Kendra Wilkinson

Hard to believe, but Hugh Hefner's ex experienced a bad Valentine's Day at the Playboy mansion, according to celebuzz.com.

"I was opening the gifts, and there were candles all around, and the wrapping caught on fire," she said. "I screamed and ran out of the room, and it was all on camera!"

Ashton Kutcher

In third grade, Kutcher had a crush on a girl "who had the prettiest super long hair," he told Parade. "I gave this girl the heart that said, 'Kiss me!' I was trying to be a little provocative and get her attention. The tragedy was that she didn't get the point, and I never got kissed."

Jessica Biel »

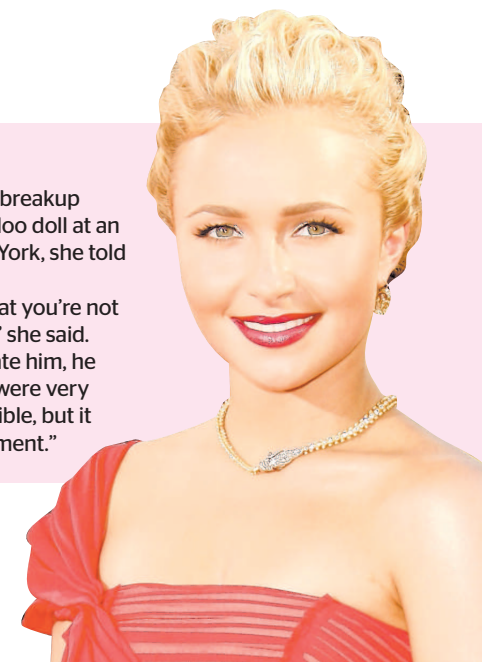

Apparently one of Biel's elementary-school classmates didn't realize that his loss would be Justin Timberlake's gain.

"Fourth grade," she told "Access Hollywood." "Made the big one. Made the big, huge card for the boy. Found it in the trash later that day. ... Not that I'm still thinking about it or anything."

Hayden Panettiere »

The "Heroes" star spent one post-breakup holiday sticking needles in a voodoo doll at an anti-Valentine's Day party in New York, she told hollywoodlife.com.

"All you ever want to know is that you're not the only person going through it," she said. "So seeing all of the notes of 'I hate him, he hates my dog,' things like that were very uplifting—which sounds horrible, but it was all I wanted at that moment."

UN Goodwill Ambassador Angelina Jolie greets children Tuesday in Port-au-Prince, Haiti. AP

Help for Haiti

Angelina Jolie's mission in Haiti is to lend a hand to the earthquake-ravaged country.

The UN goodwill ambassador told CNN she and Brad Pitt are not planning to adopt another child—yet.

"I'm always open to children around the world," she said in an interview with CNN that is scheduled to air in full Sunday, according to eonline.com. "We're that kind of a family; Brad and I talk about that. But that's not what we're focusing on at this time, by any means. We're not here for that."

Pearl Jam's perfect 'Ten'

Another blow to Kanye West's ego: The Chicago MC came in a distant second to Pearl Jam in an mtv.com reader poll to determine the best debut alum. "Ten" garnered a mighty 63 percent of the vote through two days of voting, and West's "The College Dropout" was tied for second with Arcade Fire's "Funeral" at 11 percent.

Model citizens

Two supermodels are strutting from the runway to Wisteria Lane. "Project Runway" host Heidi Klum and "America's Next Top Model" judge Paulina Porizkova will guest star on ABC's "Desperate Housewives," according to "Access Hollywood." The models will play themselves in an episode scheduled to air in March.

Academy brings back winners

Oscar alert: Last year's acting winners—Sean Penn, Kate Winslet and Penelope Cruz—will return this year to hand out the little golden guys, ew.com reports. The fourth winner was Heath Ledger, who won posthumously for "The Dark Knight." The 82nd Academy Awards airs March 7 on ABC.

Wedded mystery

Is Marc Jacobs (left) married? While his rep has denied nuptials, the fashion designer's partner, Lorenzo Martone, said they had a ceremony in St. Barts on New Year's Eve. "The official wedding documents won't be signed till later this year, so legally we're not married yet," Martone, 30, said, according to usmagazine.com.
